UAW Pipefitter Has Witnessed 50 Years of Changes

Pipefitter Eddie Dodge remembers using manual screwdrivers and wrenches to painstakingly perform tasks that take just seconds today with a power tool. In his 50 years in the Ford Chicago Assembly Plant, Dodge witnessed his job changing dramatically with the introduction of automation, he said.

Dodge retired in February with "mixed feelings," he said, looking forward to more time with his wife of 46 years, Jan, his two daughters, Gail and Kathy, and eight grandchildren, ranging in age from 5 to 22. Eddie and Jan plan to take a few trips to Las Vegas to try their luck, but mostly plan to stay close to home and their grandchildren. But Dodge will miss his coworkers at the Chicago Assembly Plant, where he started as an assembler in 1945 and 17 years later became a pipefitter. He plans to become active in UAW retirees' meetings and picnics, he said.
